This is your contribution graph. Your first  is for joining GitHub and you'll earn more as you make additional contributions. More contributions means a darker green square for that day. Over time, your chart might start looking something like this.

We have a quick guide that will show you how to create your first repository and earn more green squares!

The image displays two screenshots of a web browser showing a GitHub repository page for 'sophia-menchaca / cmpt220Menchaca'.

The top screenshot shows the repository's 'Quick setup' section, which provides instructions for cloning the repository using HTTPS or SSH, or creating a new repository on the command line. The instructions include the following commands:

git init
git add README.md
git commit -m "first commit"
git remote add origin https://github.com/sophia-menchaca/cmpt220Menchaca.git git push -u origin master

The bottom screenshot shows the repository's main page, which includes a list of commits and a table of files. The table lists the following files and their commit details:

File	Commit	Time
hw/0	Commit	6 hours ago
labs	Create 0	7 minutes ago
prj	Create 0	8 minutes ago
README.md	Create README.md	6 hours ago

The repository page also shows the repository name, a search bar, and a list of tabs for 'Code', 'Issues', 'Pull requests', 'Projects', 'Wiki', 'Settings', and 'Insights'.
